THE NEW STATE HOUSE.

Meeting of the Commissioners and Joint Legislative Committee.

Selection of a Plan for the Edifice.

The Plan of Mr. Cochrane, of Chicago, Adopted.

Full Description of the Successful Design.

Senator Reilly Denounces the Whole Project.

[Special Despatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 15.

The State House Commissioners, or the men who by common repute occupied that position till ousted by Judge Wilson, and the Joint Committee of the General Assembly on Public Buildings and Grounds, assembled at the Senate Chamber at 11 o'clock this morning, for the purpose of selecting one from the various plans offered by architects for a new State House, to cost not less than three millions of dollars, according to the letter of the law.

PROCEEDINGS.

The following gentlemen were present: Commissioners Bond, Bross, Beveridge, Smith, Vredenburgh, Hamilton and Wadsworth; Senators Mack, Odell, Reilly and Shepherd, and Representatives Cullom, Marquis, Dunning, Wilson, Bowsby and Hicks.

Senators Post, Pettes and Tinchy, and Representatives Alden, Hyan and Starr, all understood to be strongly opposed to this big swindle, did not deem it convenient or worth their while to attend. It may be proper here to state that Messrs. Thacher, Allen and Short voted for the project which passed the General Assembly by force of the "rider" which was then annexed to carry through certain measures, such as the Normal University, the Southern Penitentiary, and all or them have since expressed much anxiety to undo a new record, but have neglected this opportunity, for what reason they would be called upon to explain by their constituents.

The meeting was called to order by Commissioner Bond, who announced that the first question was made by Commissioner Smith in all reports. He was instructed by Representative Cullom, Senator Reilly and Representative Smith stood up for the rights of reporters, and the resolution was defeated.

The Secretary announced that twenty-one designs for the new State House had been received for the premium, as follows:

Fred. Wm. E. Walter, Providence, R. I.; Thos. Walter, Philadelphia; Augustus Laver, Toronto, C. W.; Thiel, J. J. Davis, New York; Feardi, Jno. Wm. Ritchie, Boston; Jno. Wm. Ritchie, Jr., Boston; Kinnicutt, Boston; Wm. Boyington, Chicago; Smith, Gardner and Hyde Park, Mass.; Smith, Gardner and Hyde Park, Mass.; Eighth, Wm. L. Avery, New Haven, Conn.; Eighth, Wm. L. Avery, New Haven, Conn.; Eighth, Isaac D. Hatfield, Philadelphia, Pa.; Tench, Jno. Wm. Ritchie, Philadelphia, Pa.; Tench, Jno. Wm. Ritchie, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa.; Cochrane, Chicago; Mitchell, J. C. Auld, Chicago; Mitchell, J. C. Auld, Jr., Chicago; Cleland, Richard Cleland, Chicago; Hackwell, Wm. Hackwell, Chicago; Hackwell, Jr., Wm. Hackwell, Chicago; Tilton, Tilton & Armstrong, Chicago.

Abbreviated descriptions of the plans were made, not more than ten or twelve designs were exposed to the criticism of the Commissioners and Committee, and the plan of Mr. Cochrane was compare favorably with any lake number ever brought together.

A motion was made and carried that each architect present be allowed twenty minutes to explain the merits of his design, which they accepted in the following order: Wm. L. Avery, Baltimore; Jno. Wm. Ritchie, Jr., Boston; Jno. Wm. Ritchie, Boston; J. C. Cochrane, Chicago; Mr. Sloan, of the firm of Sloan & Sutton, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. Gambrill, of Gambrill & Richardson, New York; Wm. Boyington, Chicago; Wm. Tilton, Tilton & Armstrong, Chicago; James H. Cook, Memphis.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cook's explanation it was moved and adopted that the name of each member be called and he manifest his choice for the plan presented by the gentleman. The result was announced as follows:

For J. C. Cochrane's plan, Commissioners Robinson, Wadsworth, Hamilton, Beveridge and Bross; Senators Mack, Odell and Cullom; Representatives Smith, Sheperd, Beesley, Ricks and Cockling.

For Van Osdell's plan—Senator Shepherd and Representative Marquis.

Sloan and Sutton's plan—Commissioner Smith.

When Senator Reily's name was called, he refused to vote, and arose in his place and, denouncing the whole scheme of building the new State House, and pointing scornful all the opposition he had made to the bill, and the reasons for which he voted for the bill last winter, but he would not vote it. He said he had heard it intimated that the people of Springfield would give $75,000 to get the bill through the Legislature. He could not believe the story could be true; at least he never had any of the money, and he had got it to keep many days to divide with him. He refused to vote for either plan.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PLAN.

The following is the architect's description of the plan as adopted:

THE EXTERIOR.

The ground plan of the building is that of the Greek Cross, arranged to present four fronts of similar style. The style is in the Corinthian order.

The outside walls of the basement or substructure to consist of rustic piers, arches, and recessed panels.

Northern, eastern, and southern fronts of the superstructure each to be supplied with a portico of eight columns, and a pediment. Each portico to have a flight of thirty-seven steps, guarded on each side by pedestal balconies. In the front of the pediments, and between the columns of the porticos, will architrave between the cornice, finished with sculpture.

Above the cornice of the portico will be a balustrade, and over the centre of each portico a dome, consisting of pedestals and balusters. The dome to be of cut stone, and to rise from the substructure to the top of the finial, about 365 feet high, consisting of pedestals and balusters. The dome, consisting of pedestals and balusters. The dome, consisting of pedestals and balusters. The dome

Race between Butler and Fearless—The Former the Winner, in Three Heats of Four—Time, 2:33 1-2-2:29 1-2, 2:30 1-4, and 2:30.

The race or trot to-day between Hiram Goldsmith's General Butler and Isaac Haas' Fearless for a purse of $1000 hundred dollars, mile heats, best in five, to wagons, in the Course at Lansingburgh, drew a large crowd of spectators, who were disappointed in the non-appearance of Tatchem. The track in the Course is delightfully situated upon an island in the Hudson, connecting between Albany and Troy. It comprises seventy-five acres of land, on which is laid out a mile track with long straight sides and easy turns. It is reached by a floating bridge nearly four hundred feet long.

The horses were brought on the track at half-past three o'clock, and, after a most successful scoring, started. Butler leading by a length, and keeping a gap of twenty lengths by the time he reached the quarter pole, which distance he maintained to the half mile pole. The position here had not changed, though in one or two places the rivals were very close.

New York Pools continue to Hunted supply the demand, and Butler is the favorite at 100 to 85. Fearless is also in demand at 100 to 75. Betting is brisk, and the odds are offered at the track in bunches of hundreds—mostly of Butler, at 100 to pay by the time he reaches the quarter pole, or to win beaths. The men here broke badly, and could not beasuothed down by the judges. Half mile heats—Butler dropped nearly to her work and stole handily away on the stallion. Time, 1:07. Fearless kept close, and won the heat by two lengths in 1:07.

Third Heat—Started promptly at the word, Fearless a neck ahead. The horses settled down and moved nervously, chopping and running nearly the whole length. The stallion never made a step and trotted the heat in 1:07 1-2, Fearless following at his heels. Butler's favor by reason of a foul on the part of Fearless.

Fourth Heat—After handsome trotting, Butler won easily in 2:30.

The first race ended as a success, and enlivened the anticipations of the forthcoming mate of the 31st, between Dexter and Hiram George with running horses.

As a matter of gossip, it is said in the public places of Albany and Troy to-night that the judges decided that Butler won on the third heat in 2:30, though 2:29¾, is the accepted time. An intersection between the judges and the driver of Fearless took place, which resulted in a reversal of decision, and the trot, so that it may be hard to have been a sporting sullety.

Destructive Fire and Loss of Life at Sterling, Ill.

[From the Sterling (Ill.) Gazette, July 17.]

One of the most destructive and disastrous conflagrations ever occurred in this city took place early on Sunday morning last, by which three persons lost their lives, and property to the amount of $200,000 was destroyed. There are a few scattering buildings standing with a sharp metallic instrument. It is highly probable that the origin of the inscription will never be known in its neighborhood when it has become extinct. The task it seems to have set itself from the history of even the most ancient of Georgetown. But to refer to the history of the remains of Susan Dodge articles buried with her.

[By the Author of "Wandering Willie," &c.

Half a mile from the village, in a wood, is a grave where he was found dead. After cutting a trench about eighteen inches deep in the form of a grave, he had placed a stone beneath which was unmistakably that of a child. This excited curiosity, and making several cross-cuts of digging deeper, our labor was rewarded by the appearance of a human tooth. As the Course is delightfully situated upon an island in the Hudson, connecting between Albany and Troy. CONCEALMENT.

And now, in conclusion, let me rise from a question of these curious facts to a consideration of their possible significance and importance. In an archæological scene, the stone implement, the bronze knife, and the sword of great interest, but when, in the grave of the courageous Amazon, the weapons of warfare are observed to have been in the habit of being interred with associations of the Bronze Age of our history, they also tell the story of peace, pursuits, and the implement Works of Galt, Tracy & Co., consisting of Engine, Boiler, Machine, Planing mill, and sash, door, and blind factory, were found to be already wrapt in flames, which, owner of the inflammable nature of the building and its contents, in and the short time succeeded the destruction of the next building in the course of the fire was a warehouse, the property of Mr. John Shepherd, which was soon destroyed, together with a portion of its contents.

The large store building owned by Mr. Shepherd, and occupied by Messrs. Pears, Hendrie & Weldon, with a heavy stock of dry goods and groceries, was the next to fall a prey to the devouring flames. Adjoining the store was a large warehouse, filled with a heavy stock of grain, and which in a very short time was reduced to a mass of ruins. The goods from the store and warehouse were mostly rescued, to a more or less damaged condition. The hide and leather store of the large warehouse, owned by Frank T. Jones, and occupied by Messrs. Wilson & Co., was torn down and carried away by the persistent efforts of the workmen in attendance. The next building in the course of the fire was the warehouse of J. J. Lodd, which was also reduced to a mass of ruins. One of the most enormous exertions of a portion of the citizens present.

The loss of Galt, Tracy & Co., on building machinery and stock, is estimated at $20,000, on which there is an insurance of $8,000. Mr. Shepherd's loss, on buildings and goods, will reach about $6,000; no insurance. The loss of Messrs. Page, Sampson & Whorley, on goods destroyed and damaged, is about $600, upon which there is no insurance. Mr. Jones's loss is between $600 and $800, and is not insured. The wind was in a favorable quarter, the northwest; had it been in the east, the greatest destruction of property would have been inevitable.

It is with sincere sadness that we have to record the melancholy fact that Richard S. McShane, private in Hutchins' Galt, Tracy & Co.'s establishment, perished on that night, whether by the flames or by the hand of an assassin is not known; certain it is his charred and disfigured remains were recovered from the ruins in the morning. Strong suspicions of foul play are entertained, but nothing has yet been revealed to satisfactorily determine the matter.

Curious and Cruel Case of Wife Desertion.

[Bay City (Mich.) Correspondence (July 31) of the Detroit Free Press.

Sometime last fall a man and his wife came here from Columbus, St. Clair County; the man is a laborer, and the lady who shared his fortunes here, is a sewing wife. The man found ready work and the family flourished. A month or two since a nice looking boy, apparently about seven years of age, came into the family circle, claiming to be the son of the lady and consequently his former husband, and as such the lady of the house, who, knew nothing of her predecessor, showed her the kindest attentions and cared for the visiting son. All went well for a month or more, when, to his horror the lady discovered that her husband had sold everything he could, and had left the country with the boy. At this juncture the wife found not only to be not her stepson, but indeed not a boy, but a young lady dressed in her husband, and romantic and silly accordingly enough to live more than a month with him, supposing herself to be his son, and finally to depart with him for parts as yet unknown. The wife of this story is left in destitute circumstances, and is now seeking means with which to return to her former home.

A Horrible Death.

[From the Cincinnati Times, July 19.]

Coroner Emmert last evening held an inquest upon the body of a young man named John H. Prior, who met his death in a horrible manner about noon yesterday. He was employed in the foundry of Messrs. James L. Haven & Co., 175, 174 and 176 West Front street, and was born the reputation of a first-rate workman. Early in the afternoon, yesterday, he was working in the rear of the foundry, and, while on the seat—which is very narrow—fell backward into the cupola to admit the body of a man—as it is supposed, rebut with a fit—he having been subject to such attacks—which caused him to lose his balance and fall to the bottom of the vault, a distance of about twenty feet. Assistance was called at once, but it was found impossible to rescue the unfortunate man from his horrible fate. But beneath the terrible mass of fire. The work of emptying the vault was commenced at once, and last night, about seven o'clock, the body was brought to the surface.

A Woman Instantly Roasted by an Explosion of Kerosene.

[From the Rock Island (Ill.) Union, July 18.]

A terrible calamity occurred here last Evening (Friday) attended with loss of life. About nine o'clock there was a cry of "fire" from that part of the town situated on the bluff, and on the arrival of the people at the place (which was almost immediately) they were horror struck at the fire the brick building in the rear of Mr. C. Hennings, Hosiery, occupied by him as a dwelling house. It comprises seventy-five acres of land, on which is laid out a mile track with long straight sides and easy turns. It is reached by a floating bridge nearly four hundred feet long.

The Additional Recovery Act.

The Secretary of War, on Friday last, submitted to the House the following letter from the Postmaster General, dated July 29:

In reply to a resolution directing the Secretary of War and the Treasurer to inform the House what further legislation, if any is necessary to facilitate the payment of additional bounties, granted by the act of July 28th, the Postmaster General says: "In my opinion no further legislation is necessary. Payments can be made, as rapidly as they succeed in regard to the work of auditing and paying the claims for additional bounty, as fast as they are presented. The only difficulty or delay that has occurred or will occur, is in the system now established for the payment of the bounty. The only change in the system now established for the payment of the bounty would be rather to retard than facilitate the accomplishment of the object in view.

It is unnecessary to explain that the rolls to which reference must be had for the auditing of these claims are kept strictly confidential in the custody of the officer to that end in the Treasury Department (the officer of the Treasury by whom they finally pass for the examination and settlement of the disbursing officers' accounts.

Whether this could be done with the force of his clerical force, could instantly decide in his office, or whether he has not as many clerks engaged in the mechanical matter of forwarding data to us, from the Auditor's office as he can employ to advantage, I am not properly to be answered by him.

Olive Tar.

A STANDARD PREPARATION,

The True Specific

FOR ALL "DISEASES OF THE

ORGANS OF RESPIRATION,

INCLUDING

ACUTE OR CHRONIC,

INCLUDING

Bronchitis Asthma, Catarrh, Colds Coughs, Bleeding at the Lungs, Sore Throat, Croup,

AND

CONSUMPTION.

The leading, standing, unquestionable virtues of VEGETABLE TAR cause the immediate and certain removal of the most distressing forms, and the tough, viscid phlegm which covers many parts, to the astonishment of the patient, and the wonder of the physician through the introduction of DR. J. S. STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR into the cavities of RESPIRATION. Since it has been a most common occurrence, not only of the public, but of the most experienced and practical physicians of the United States, Canada, the West Indies, and Spanish America.

The two great causes in the consumption of Consumption and other diseases are—first, to the cause the TWO AFFECTIONS, and, second, to apply it directly to the inflamed organs it is designed to heal and to cure.

Both these objects have been now attained. STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR is admitted by the first authorities in America, to be the best specific known for the cure of Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial apparatus, and its wonderful healing power is brought to immediate contact with the diseased and ulcerated surface, by the simple process of

INHALATION,

The inhaling vessel and tubes go with the preparation, and the operation is not only painless, but agreeable. The Tar and Olive Oil, which are the two principal articles are placed together in the reticular; the Atmospheric Air passes directly through the Olive Tar, and, after passing through it, comes in the form of every inspiration of the breath to the seat of disease, carrying

"Healing on its Wings."

For CATARRH the inhalation is through the nostrils, by which means the entire nasal passages are at once penetrated with minute particles of the TARRED PINE-Tar-like relief is afforded. Full dir. ctions accompany the inhaler, which is portable, and can be carried in the pocket, and can be used without the slightest inconvenience or trouble anywhere and everywhere.

STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR is given internally as a medicine, and applied externally as a counter-irritant with the most salutary results.

For CROUP the case is from one to six hours, with the most wonderful effect in relieving the child from the distress. For WHOOPING COUGH the same. In both complaints the salutary effect is quickly experienced, and a result very gratifying to the parent and friend. NEURALGIA and RHEUMATISM are alleviated at once by rubbing the Tar on the parts affected. It is also a specific for Piles, Sore Throat, Sore Nipples, Burns, Scalds, Sore Breasts, Salt Rheum, Sores, Ulcers, Scalds, Boils, Felons, and all dry and purulent sores.

STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR is also invaluable as a preventive remedy, in the powerful vegetable remedy—pure, internally as an anti-febrile agent, and used externally as a counter-irritant. In cases of INFLAMMATION OF THE LUNGS, and BOWELS, the same treatment will give almost like relief.

Cases of the Consumption are not the worst to yield to the influence of STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR, when used as speedily as STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR.

In Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Catarrh, Sore Throat, Croup, and all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Bronchial Tubes, STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR, when administered by inhalation, exceeds the most sanguine expectations of the sufferer, and in a manner not attained by all physicians when witnessing it for the first time.

No preparatory preparation before the system has received the benefit of the Tar. Any one suffering from any of the diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Bronchial tubes, and the Family, the Canvy, eminent Counsels will derive benefits of the Stimpson and Gunnell Tar, Pitcher, Merchants, Lawyers, and persons engaged in Commercial pursuits, Editors, Reporters, Divines, Merchants, Literature, and persons engaged in sedentary pursuits will find one bottle of STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR will have more effect than a dozen bottles of any other preparation in the system elsewhere for which it is recommended.

SIX CONCLUSIVE FACTS

IN RELATION TO

Stafford's Olive Tar.

I.—MY OWN EXPERIENCE.—I have had a chronic difficulty of about fifteen years' standing, the seat of Ancient Fever. By using previous remedies no somewhat, but not much, by his advice, I had more a trial of the "Olive Tar," and I can evidence of a cure. Many physicians own language, "It worked like a charm." The people said it was a miracle. I WOULD THERE IT WAS God's Blessing on your Olive Tar. I cannot a relapse, but know. With the exception of "what heals" from hard cases, I have been improving until I have a pair of lungs (Great power—a power to do) I have not had for years. I have no fears, when the "Olive Tar" has never seen the remarking disease that I must be laid aside in the morning of my days.

II.—ANOTHER FACT.—An aunt of mine was given up by my physicians and friends to die of consumption. I prevailed on my cousin to send her a bottle of STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR, with the expectation only of relieving some of the "pain of dying." It made her more comfortable. The OLIVE TAR was continued, and a few weeks, judge of my surprise to see her and her aunt drive up to my door in her own buggy, two hundred miles from home.

III.—ANOTHER FACT.—A lady member of this aunt, who had been afflicted with Rheumatism, resorting to ointment and hunting remedy, tried some of the Olive Tar at my own suggestion, and, in less than one week, was entirely well.

IV.—ANOTHER FACT STILL.—I recommended the Olive Tar to a neighboring Baptist Clergyman, for his wife, whose lungs had come been ailing with frequent attacks of severe inflammation in them, of every attack succeeding to die. She has used it with gratifying effect.

I could give you instances of the Restorative Power of the Olive Tar in severe forms. It removes the pain, and prevents hindering and summer affections.

V.—FOR CHILDLAINS your Olive Tar is the best remedy I know of.

I am, dear sir, yours gratefully,
O. F. A. SPINNING,

STAFFORD'S

Olive Tar.

A STANDARD PREPARATION,

The True Specific

FOR ALL "DISEASES OF THE

ORGANS OF RESPIRATION,

INCLUDING

ACUTE OR CHRONIC,

INCLUDING

Bronchitis Asthma, Catarrh, Colds Coughs, Bleeding at the Lungs, Sore Throat, Croup,

AND

CONSUMPTION.

The leading, standing, unquestionable virtues of VEGETABLE TAR cause the immediate and certain removal of the most distressing forms, and the tough, viscid phlegm which covers many parts, to the astonishment of the patient, and the wonder of the physician through the introduction of DR. J. S. STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR into the cavities of RESPIRATION. Since it has been a most common occurrence, not only of the public, but of the most experienced and practical physicians of the United States, Canada, the West Indies, and Spanish America.

The two great causes in the consumption of Consumption and other diseases are—first, to the cause the TWO AFFECTIONS, and, second, to apply it directly to the inflamed organs it is designed to heal and to cure.

Both these objects have been now attained. STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR is admitted by the first authorities in America, to be the best specific known for the cure of Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial apparatus, and its wonderful healing power is brought to immediate contact with the diseased and ulcerated surface, by the simple process of

INHALATION,

The inhaling vessel and tubes go with the preparation, and the operation is not only painless, but agreeable. The Tar and Olive Oil, which are the two principal articles are placed together in the reticular; the Atmospheric Air passes directly through the Olive Tar, and, after passing through it, comes in the form of every inspiration of the breath to the seat of disease, carrying

"Healing on its Wings."

For CATARRH the inhalation is through the nostrils, by which means the entire nasal passages are at once penetrated with minute particles of the TARRED PINE-Tar-like relief is afforded. Full dir. ctions accompany the inhaler, which is portable, and can be carried in the pocket, and can be used without the slightest inconvenience or trouble anywhere and everywhere.

STAFFORD'S OLIVE TAR is given internally as a medicine, and applied externally as a counter-irritant with the most salutary results.

For CROUP the case is from one to six hours, with the most wonderful effect in relieving the child from the distress. For WHOOPING COUGH the same. In both complaints the salutary effect is quickly experienced, and a result very gratifying to the parent and friend. NEURALGIA and RHEUMATISM are alleviated at once by rubbing the Tar on the parts affected. It is
